Postmasters And Carriers

Newspapers are now handled as first-class mail. All papers not delivered should be returned to publisher. This paper has no free list, and it will appreciate the co-operation of postmasters carriers in the delivery of the paper to subscribers who are entitled to same. Change in address, death of subscribers, refusals and the like should be promptly reported.

Proposed Primary Law

Senator Ferguson has introduced a primary bill in the Senate, which does not in our opinion meet the demands and wishes of the Democrats of Appomattox and the State of Virginia. The question of who should vote in a party primary has always been perplexing, but the law should say who shall vote and not partisan judges and committees.

Sec. 228. Who May Vote—All persons qualified to vote at the election for which the primary is held, and not disqualified by reasons of other requirements in the law of the party to which he belongs, may vote at the primary, except that: No person shall be permitted to vote for the candidates of any party in any primary unless such person is a known member of such party, and in the last preceding general election, in which such person participated, he or she voted for the nominees of such party; and, upon challenge, such person shall declare on oath that he or she is a member of such party and supported such nominees as hereinbefore required before being permitted to vote.

If such person has never voted before, then it shall be necessary only that such person is a known member of such party and will support the nominees of such party in the ensuing election.

Who shall be the judge of a "known member"? Not many Democrats will participate in a primary where it takes an oath on his past conduct to qualify such person to vote. Let the voter declare that he will support the nominees of the party in which he participates—this is fair and just to all. The voter knows what he intends to do, but the past opens up a wide field, which he would not care to enter, and it should not be made a prerequisite to his right to participate in his party's primary. If he is qualified under the Constitution and laws of his State to vote, no test of party fealty should be exacted beyond his declaration that he will support the nominees of the primary at the ensuing election.

The law of the party should have no place in a legalized primary. Let the primary law be the rule and guide for all primary elections. Otherwise abolish the primary law and let each party convention promulgate its party laws and all loyal party men will respect and obey same. If a primary is ordered by party authorities to be held at the expense of the tax-payers, let it be held according to the law in all respects and be plain and conclusive without any alterations by committees or judges of election in conflict therewith.

The name of no candidate shall be printed on any official ballot used at any primary unless such person is legally qualified to hold the office for which he is a candidate, AND UNLESS HE IS ELIGIBLE TO VOTE IN THE PRIMARY IN WHICH HE SEEKS TO BE A CANDIDATE.

* * * * * * *

The words in small caps is Mr. Ferguson's proposed amendment. Why authorize the committee to take away from any man or woman in the party their constitutional right to vote and hold office?

The primary cannot survive such stringent rules and the party will be forced back into the disgraceful mode of nominating its candidates by convention.

Unless the law fixes plainly the status of the candidate and the voter, without the intervention of judges of election and committees, all primaries had best be conducted by the general election laws, with an amendment that all voters shall declare that they will support the nominees of the primary in which they vote.

Will Have No Opposition.

Clifton Forge Review.

There is little likelihood that Harry St. Geo. Tucker will be opposed for renomination by the Democrats as his own successor in Congress. So far there has been no motion of any candidate to oppose Mr Tucker and it is well understood that it is now too late for anyone to organize his forces with this end in view. Quite naturally the Republicans will make a nomination, but as the Tenth District is overwhelmingly of the Democratic faith, Mr. Tucker is a regard himself as out of danger. He was a time when the Republicans used to put up strong men for Congress and more than once they have carried the district, but in late years they have not manifested any unusual interest in electing one of their number to the national lawmaking body. We have heard it said that the Republicans will have candidates for Congress in all of the ten districts in this State. This is no more than right, because it is the only way to maintain their organization, but in only one district have they any show of victory and that is the Ninth.

As for Mr. Tucker we want to be recorded as saying that his services are satisfactory to his constituents. On this score we have heard not one word of complaint or criticism. The people recognize that he has ability and experience that are worth much to his district and State. Only a few weeks ago he made an address in the House of Representatives on an important measure and it excited no end of favorable comments on the part of his colleagues. But making speeches is only a small part of a Congressman's duties. He must keep himself posted and vote intelligently on the issues as they arise. In Mr. Tucker's behalf it can be said that he thoroughly posted on international law, and this is of extreme importance at this particular time.

We have no idea that any aspirant for Congress within the Democratic party could defeat Mr. Tucker this year. When the gentleman named let it be known a few years ago that he would make the race to fill a vacancy then existing, it was not believed he could win. It was argued that he was too old by some and that he had been sufficiently honored by others, but when the testing time came, "Old Filmore" outranked them all. In spite of the decree issued in some quarters against the election of Mr. Tucker to Congress, he won hands down and surprised his closest friends. We might add in this connection that we believe Mr. Tucker can remain in Congress as long as he keeps his health and desires to serve his district. At any rate he will be sent back this year and in all probability will be of the majority party during his next term and under a Democratic President.

It is late this year now to start our tobacco factory, but we shall certainly expect arrangements to be made to operate our factory next year. This will save the Co-ops the cost of shipping and handling tobacco at other markets. Besides the Co-ops can get good storage and all facilities at Appomattox and as Appomattox is a Co-ops town why not stand by your town and at the same time save yourselves money? The Co-ops warehouse manager should explain the reason for shipping tobacco from Appomattox to other markets for rehandling.

Mary Succeeds on Main Street

By LAURA MILLER

GOTHAM, SHORT-CHANGE ARTIST

Are you more interested in people or things? Would you rather accumulate friends or dollar bills? That is practically the way a successful young woman lawyer puts the question of city vs. town. The town, she is sure, offers more friendships. The city may give you a higher pile of cash—if you succeed above the average. Otherwise the city short-changes you both ways, she believes.

If actions speak louder than words, it is significant that Bessie Newsom, A. B., A. M., LL. B., Phi Beta Kappa (that's the scholarship one, you know), national president of Kappa Alpha Chi (that's a social one that's said to take in only brains plus good looks), moved from Washington to Oklahoma City and Oklahoma City to Hot Springs, Ark.

The moves were dictated by anything but fear of failure. In Washington, Miss Newsom, with all her degrees accumulated before she was twenty-four, became a member of a successful firm and was made an associate member of the legal and advisory war board of the city.

In Oklahoma City, a place on the state Democratic speakers' bureau, an income above the average salary, a practice that brought her "warmth of reception and genuine interest," are a few of the early successes attained.

The story in Hot Springs is, she says, "just beginning to be made." A digest of Arkansas laws is on the program for the near future! Her fellow townswomen describe her as "a woman who has won a place for not only herself, but for other women in public affairs. Though yet in her twenties, she is one of the best-informed citizens of the entire country on topics of the day and national and international affairs. Withal she is a winsome, womanly girl, and enjoys the good times of her home club as well as the more serious affairs of her public career."

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Latest Gleanings From All Over the State

THINGS SEEN AND HEARD

Chase City.—Hester-Bryant Post, No. 43, American Legion, at a recent meeting here urged that the General Assembly, in its efforts to economize, should not bar more students from State schools. Resolutions along this line were adopted.

Danville.—R. M. Wilson, of Henry county, reports having shot a white partridge a few days ago while hunting near Martinsville. The snow white bird was one of a large covey and made a shining mark. It was pure white with the exception of the breast, which was brown speckled. He has sent it to New York to be mounted.

Danville.—Republicans from the Fifth Virginia District, in convention at Rocky Mount, elected T. L. Felts, of Grayson, and Beverley A. Davis, Franklin, as delegates to the Republican National Convention. H. S. Adams, of Pittsylvania, was named elector. The delegates were instructed for Calvin Coolidge without opposition.

Lynchburg.—Frank Daniel, 50, negro, who was arrested by W. H. Irvin, Southern Railway patrolman, after he had been detected throwing coal from a moving train, was shot and killed by the officer when the negro clutched his throat when Irvin was attempting to place handcuffs on his wrists.

Lynchburg.—It was learned here that Judge Joseph L. Kelly, who recently resigned from the bench of the State Supreme Court, of which he was president, has been appointed division counsel for the Southern Railway for the State of Virginia, and that Judge Kelly will have his headquarters in Lynchburg. Judge Kelly is expected to open his offices here about March 1. It is also understood he will engage in a private practice here.

Boydton.—Director John R. Hutcheson, of the extension division, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, addressed a body of Mecklenburg county citizens here. Director Hutcheson laid before the people the necessity of a long-time program of agricultural development for the county. Committees have been formed to work out plans for development in the various phases of agriculture. These committees will meet within the next ten days.

Winchester.—Mrs. Roland T. Bryarly, wife of a prominent business man, is recovering from the bite of a dog which attacked Mrs. Bryarly, biting her on the mouth. Mrs. Bryarly had been sick for several months, is slowly improving.

Miss Mattie Wright, of Lynchburg was week-end guest of her friend, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wright.

Mrs. E. H. Carson was week-end guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. M. Stratton, Jr., who has recently returned from Chicago to Lynchburg, where she will make her home.

1923

The Old Year

During 1923 it was our pleasure and privilege to serve our depositors on a larger scale and in more ways than ever before. Our steady, consistent growth has been very gratifying to us, because it meant that our friends and customers were growing with us—that our success and prosperity was shared in by many. Our part in contributing to the healthy financial life of Appomattox and vicinity has been a source of eminent satisfaction to us.

1924

The New Year

The new year opens with bright promises of still greater things to be accomplished. We are not content that the achievements of the past shall measure any limit of our possibilities. We anticipate the renewed confidence of those whom we have served in the past and the joy of making many new friends. We extend to you a cordial invitation to make this your financial home for 1924, and, we hope, for many more years to come.
